Zoë Gilby
NOW that am real

“

I wanted a powerful, honest title for this album and I found inspiration from the Charles Mingus biography, 'Myself When I am Real' written by Gene Santoro. It reflects where I am right now with myself and music. The journey in music always feels like it's a new beginning for me. Now that I am truly spreading my wings,

Now that I am
real”

“I would like to thank:

My father Mike Gilby. His influence has sparked this fire and the passion he has passed on will keep it burning. Tony Faulkner for believing in me and putting the magic into this album. Mike Carton for his support, encouragement and for flying over from New York to take part in this recording. The musicians who gave their all on this album. My mother, Hilary, for her unconditional love. Special thanks to June and Bill.”
